

We first started Soy Natural-E in September, 2008 on an under-weight Missouri Fox Trotter we had recently purchased. This young mare was a body condition score three with a dull coat and lacking energy. We thoroughly dewormed the mare and had her teeth floated. We added four ounces of Soy-Natural E to her daily 5 pounds of Purina Strategy. Adding the Soy Natural-E was the only change in her diet from what her previous owners provided her. We choose to add oil to the diet to avoid overloading the mare with grain. Within 30 days of adding the Soy Natural-E, her coat was noticeably richer in color and softer. She was gaining weight and becoming far more physically active. By January, 2009, the mare was approaching body condition score 5 and was being broke to ride.

We had previously used a similar product, Healthy Coat, with great success. Soy Natural-E performed every bit as well but cost about 50% less. We strongly recommend Soy Natural-E to those who want to add calories safely. The fats in Soy Natural-E are safely absorbed in the horse's hindgut allowing you to increase calories without taking the risk of colic or making the horse hot.
